121ST REGT. PENNA. VOL'S.

Institution a record as any regiment from the State of Pennsylvania. Its history has been amply set forth by the survivors, and what makes their book more valuable is that it is illustrated with maps of the country in its two campaigns, when the great battles at Antietam, and Gettysburg were fought.

This Regimental History was published for the benefit of those who were members of the Regiment, and their immediate friends and relatives; and the low price at which it is offered (Two Dollars per copy) will not cover the expense of publication.

Copies of the History may be had on application to

W. W. STRONG,
VILLANOVA, DELAWARE CO., PA.

Notwithstanding the time consumed and the care taken to make the History of the 121st Regiment Penna. Vols. as nearly complete as possible, it is now found necessary to publish these addenda, in order that a few errors may be corrected and a number of omissions supplied.

The several pages covering the movements of the regiment from the time it entered the service until its return to Philadelphia are given to correct any inaccuracies of the line of march as traced on the map in the front of the book, and these few pages really constitute a regimental history themselves.

"General Order No. 16," announced after the battle of Fredericksburg, was entirely overlooked at the time the history was published, although several of those who were honored by being favorably mentioned in said order were also members of the Historical Committee. The fact that such an order was published was subsequently brought to the attention of the chairman, who, after consulting the Secretary of War, succeeded in securing a copy. In justice to all, the order is given in full.

The additional information in reference to Company "I" and Company "A" First Penna. Artillery will also prove interesting.

It is intended that every subscriber to the History shall receive a copy of these addenda.

Very respectfully,

F. C. AINSWORTH,
Colonel, U. S. Army, Chief, Record and Pension Office.

HEADQUARTERS 121ST REGT. PENNA. VOLS., FIRST BRIGADE,
CAMP NEAR WHITE OAK CHURCH, December 30, 1862.

GENERAL ORDER, No. 16:—

The Colonel commanding the regiment takes very great pleasure in acknowledging the bravery and discipline of the officers and men under his command at the battle of Fredericksburg on Saturday, December 13, 1862. It is also a peculiar gratification to him that the valor of these officers and men has been recognized by others out of the command.

The commanding officer has requested and obtained from the field officers of the regiment and from company commanders in many instances a list of those who have particularly distinguished themselves in that action. He regrets that from the vague returns of some of the company commanders he is unable to do special justice to the men of those commands. The following is a list of the distinguished:—

Herpst, for coolness in discharge of his duty; Sergeant Alexander McDowell, for bravery; Corporal John M. Bingham, for bravery; Corporal Francis H. Hilliard, for bravery.

BY LIEUTENANT ROSENGARTEN, IN COMMAND OF COMPANY "D."

Lieutenant Etting, for coolness and promptness throughout the action; Acting Orderly Sergeant William W. Horner, for aiding in saving the colors as the line was retiring; Privates Auguste F. Claus and Henry D. Rauch, for good conduct; Private John Galbraith, for good conduct.

BY CAPTAIN CLAPP, OF COMPANY "F."

Lieutenant J. K. Byers, Sergeant Kahl, Corporal Wise, Privates R. Swab and L. L. Say, for bravery and good conduct.

BY CAPTAIN LAURIE, OF COMPANY "B."

Sergeant G. B. Cave, for soldierly conduct.

BY CAPTAIN WRIGLEY, OF COMPANY "H."

Second Lieutenant Harrison Lambdin, for gallant conduct; Private Robert Cummings, who, after being severely wounded and ordered to the rear, declined to go and continued fighting until compelled to leave the field; Private A. Clay Matthews, for distinguished conduct.

The commanding officers of Companies "I," "C," "G," "K," report the general bravery and good conduct of their respective commands as well as the captains of all other companies. The Colonel regrets, however, that he has no means of acknowledging any distinguished service in the four companies referred to other than has been done, which he would have been most happy to have done had he been supplied with the means of particularizing those worthy of distinction.

The Colonel desires to acknowledge the valuable services of the field officers who so materially aided him, as also those of the Adjutant. He refers with great satisfaction to the services of Surgeon Ramsey on the field.

The memory of the gallant dead who perished on the field will ever be held in grateful recollection by their officers and fellow-soldiers. The success which they endeavored to earn in common with their companions was denied them, but their heroic conduct will not the less leave honorable names to their families and friends.

By order of

COL. CHAPMAN BIDDLE.

THOS. M. HALL,

Adj. 121st Penna. Vols.

Official copy, respectfully furnished for the information of W. W. Strong.

“Resolved, That the companies composing this regiment be requested to hold themselves in readiness to march at a moment’s warning.”

“The consideration of the other resolution was postponed until Friday evening next at 8 o’clock, in order to receive the reports of the Captains of the several companies. This resolution was in these terms:—

“Resolved, That the Colonel be requested to tender the services of the regiment to the President of the United States whenever or wherever they may be needed.”

“Whereupon it was unanimously

“Resolved, That we cordially respond to the recommendation of the Board of Officers and hold ourselves in readiness to follow any requisition that may be made upon us for duty—the nature and occasion of which we leave to be determined by the proper military authority.”

“At a special meeting of the company, held at the office of Chapman Biddle, Esq., on the evening of Monday, May 12, 1848, J. H. Markland, Esq., was called to the chair, and H. D. Landis appointed Secretary. It was

“Resolved, That the company be and is hereby finally dissolved, and that the Secretary be requested to notify Brigade Inspector Firth of the same.”

“On motion adjourned.”

COMPANY “A,” 1ST REGT. PENNA. ARTILLERY.

A meeting, called by Chapman Biddle, was held in his office, April 19, 1861, at which a company of artillery was organized, and afterwards designated as Company “A,” 1st Regt. Penna. Artillery.

On May 29, 1861, at an election, held at the armory of the company, the following officers were duly elected:—

Captain, Chapman Biddle; Lieutenant, Henry D. Landis; Lieutenant, Alexander Biddle; Lieutenant, Samuel Wilcox; and commissions, bearing that date, were issued to each of the above officers by Governor Curtin.

On July 16, 1861, the company, by order of Captain Biddle, went into camp at Chadd’s Ford, Delaware county, for purposes of instruction, where they remained some ten days, all the above-named officers being present.

In August, 1862, on the organization of the 121st Regt. of Penna. Vols., Captain Chapman Biddle and Lieutenant Alexander Biddle resigned their respective positions as officers of Company "A," when an election was held at the armory to fill the vacancies occasioned by said resignations, and the following officers were elected:—

Captain, Henry D. Landis; First Lieutenant, Samuel C. Perkins; Second Lieutenant, Samuel Wilcox.

In September, 1862, the Governor issued a call for volunteers to aid in preventing the then threatened invasion of Pennsylvania by the rebels. This call was almost unanimously responded to by the members of Company "A," who proceeded to Harrisburg on the 14th of that month, where they were mustered into service, under the following officers, viz.:—

Captain, Henry D. Landis; First Lieutenant, Samuel C. Perkins; Second Lieutenant, Samuel Wilcox; when new commissions, bearing that date, were issued to each of the above officers.

The company proceeded, on the 17th of September, by rail to Chambersburg, Pa., when they went into camp some three miles outside of the town, and, in company with some three or four thousand other volunteers, went through a severe course of drill and discipline for two weeks, when they were ordered back to Philadelphia.

In June, 1863, a second call was issued by the Governor for volunteers to assist in the defence of Pennsylvania against rebel invasion, which was responded to by a large number of members of the old company, the balance being made up by new men.

On June 29, 1863 (Sunday), the news published in the morning papers that the rebels were marching on Gettysburg, where doubtless a great battle would be fought, and, if successful, they would proceed to Philadelphia, caused the greatest excitement in the city.

After a hurried consultation with some of the old members of Company "A," who were not able to go out with it on this campaign, it was concluded that a company should be at once raised, and placed under the command of the United States general officer then stationed at Philadelphia.

By that night fifty men had signed the roll, and, in response to notice given in the papers on Monday, forty more joined the company.

The armory was kept open day and night for a week, and drills were going on several times each day during that period.

On July 28th, the company of Minute Men paraded as an escort to Company "A," who on that day returned home.

The officers of this company were, viz. :—

Captain, Samuel Wilcox; First Lieutenant, Charles Vezin; Second Lieutenant, Clement B. Penrose.
